Check Out

I created a high-fidelity shopping cart page for the Bun Bun Bake Shop. It has a clean interface that simply features the products in the cart with relevant details and a summary of the purchase that leads to checking out. The image, name, quantity, and glazing are included as necessary information about the product. Customers can double check what they are going to buy before they officially purchase it. The price of the product itself is also featured, along with the choice to add or remove the product. At the bottom, there is a price summary of the delivery fee, the tax money, and the total amount to be paid for the purpose of clarity and transparency. A prominent check out button leads customers to the payment process and a cross on the top is where customers can exit if they aren't checking out immediately. The aesthetics consistently follow the overall visual theme of the website.
